

GAMeNGLISH!

Playing games is one of the basic needs of elementary school students. Playing games at school is a very useful tool for both the child's psychomotor development and other development of other skills. In the course of our project, we aim to make the English language more popular by playing games in primary school English lessons and to make permanent learning and to provide an environment for cooperation and exchange of ideas bGAMeNGLISH! Playing games is one of the basic needs of elementary school students. Playing games at school is a very useful tool for both the child's psychomotor development and other development of other skills. In the course of our project, we aim to make the English language more popular by playing games in primary school English lessons and to make permanent learning and to provide an environment for cooperation and exchange of ideas between teachers.

18:57

etween teachers.